PREMISE

Learning through clinical practice is the most powerful part of becoming a health care professional

CHALLENGE

How to develop and support healthy and competent learning environments in real life, in clinical environments dedicated to patient care?

AIM

The conference aims to introduce cutting edge theory, research methods, and practical strategies to clinicians, educators and academics in medicine and other health professions.

CONTENT

Plenaries will provide an overview of current pedagogical and theoretical developments in medical workplace education internationally. Extensive participatory workshops and symposia will offer participants opportunities for practice, reflection, and sharing of ideas. A 15-hours course in clinical workplace supervisory skills will be offered as one of the parallel activities.
